Themes of the Week
The Stone Age & Take Us Back

The campers began the 7th week of camp with a lesson on charity, their last virtue of the summer. On Tuesday, the 7-12 year old campers had their faces painted by "Face Painting by Stormy". Matt Cranley, a youth minister at St. John Vianney, performed for the campers on Wednesday both in the morning and during the prayer service. The 4-6 year old campers had their final "Wacky Water Day" of the summer on Thursday while the 7-12 year old campers were away on a field trip to "Wet'n'Wild Splash Town." "Texas Snakes" paid the campers a visit on Friday bringing with them 6 of their favorite snakes including Reuben an albino Burmese python.

Campers reviewed all of this summer's virtues and the mosaics in the church associated with them to begin the final week of camp. Matt Cranley will return this Tuesday to perform for the 4-6 year old campers as part of their "Wacky Fun Day." While the younger campers are busy at camp, the 7-12 year old campers will be taking a trip to iTZ Houston for their final field trip of the summer. Along with celebrating the Stations of the Cross, the 7-12 year old campers will spend Wednesday afternoon at the Westchester neighborhood pool. Camp SJV will celebrate the last day of camp on Thursday with a fun filled Camper Fun Day.
